FREDERICK DAVID MALKINSON 1924-2015

Frederick David Malkinson, M.D., age 91, passed away on Sept 7 after a brief illness.

After graduating from the Harvard University School of Dentistry and Harvard Medical School, Dr. Malkinson went on to do his dermatology residency at the University of Chicago with the noted researcher, Stephen Rothman, M.D. It was there, as a faculty member, that Dr. Malkinson pioneered the use of radiation for a variety of skin diseases.

In 1968, Dr. Malkinson was recruited by Rush University Medical School and the Department of Internal Medicine at Rush, where he founded the Department of Dermatology. He chaired the Department of Dermatology for over 20 years until his retirement.

He authored over 130 articles, clinical studies, and book chapters in dermatology publications, was chief editor of the "Yearbook of Dermatology" and the "American Medical Association Archives of Dermatology" and served as an editorial consultant to the World Book Medical Encyclopedia. He held leadership positions in the American Academy of Dermatology, the Society for Investigative Dermatology, the Dermatology Foundation and the Chicago Dermatological Society. Dr. Malkinson traveled the world as a speaker and instructor on radiobiological research and treatment of dermatologic disorders.

For 30 years, he pioneered the creation of numerous dermatological audiovisual teaching aids for university medical students and residents-in-training, for which he was awarded the Lifetime Career Educator Award from the Dermatology Foundation. He organized and established the National Residency Matching Program for Dermatology in 1982—the country's first for any specialty of medicine—and supervised the program for 20 years.

Dr. Malkinson served 24 years in the U.S. Navy, including 2½ years of active duty during the Korean War, retiring with the rank of Captain.

Dr. Malkinson was a liberal thinker, had a good sense of humor, and was devoted to his family. He loved travel and hiking, American history, the arts, and musical theater. He was a thoughtful, modest person dedicated to bringing out the best from people around him. He was recognized worldwide for his contributions to medical research and innovative treatments, editorial positions of prestigious medical publications, and presidencies of numerous professional and civic organizations.

Michael Tharp, M.D. said in a 2004 issue of the CDS Newsletter: "In his over fifty years of service to dermatology, Fred Malkinson has touched and influenced the lives of many young physicians. He has served as a mentor and role model to countless medical students, residents, and faculty members at the University of Chicago and at Rush University, and has been a leader among his colleagues in the Chicago Dermatological Society. His thoughtful and scholarly approach to clinical and research problems over the years has made him a magnet for those who were eager to learn."

He will be fondly remembered by his children, Philip (Patricia), Carol (David Hyde), and John (Deborah), grandchildren Jacob and Chloe, stepchildren Bill and Paul Weiss, and his wife of 36 years, Una.

I was born in Council Bluffs, Iowa, a small town of about 50,000 people (on the Iowa/Nebraska border). I had always wanted to be a dermatologist. I remember I would go back to high school class reunions (in my twenties) and people would ask "are you a dermatologist yet?", so obviously it was my goal for a long time.

I did my internship year in internal medicine at the University of Iowa and was very fortunate to get the one spot available at Rush University Department of Dermatology. It was great to have co-residents: Dr's Donna Stockton, Betsy Rest, and Jeanne Valicenti. I was fortunate to have been taught by Dr. Fred Malkinson and to be able to see dermatological disease through

Dr. Roger Pearson's keen eyes. Dr. Amy Paller taught me pediatric dermatology. We would travel to Michael Reese Hospital weekly where Dr. David Fretzin would let us view slides under his microscope.

I started helping Dr. Nancy Lichon in her office in Lombard 22 years ago and have never left. Dr. Kelly Abate joined me in our Elmhurst location in 2003. Lauren Greco, PA-C is our physician assistant. Dr. Tracy Campbell started doing Mohs in our Melrose Park office in 2010. All of us together make the trials and tribulations of private practice fun and interesting.

I am on the teaching staff at Rush University, seeing patients with the residents one day per month. I met my husband Bill (a suburban police officer) soon after starting my practice. We were married seven months later. We have several cats in our household and two pugs. I love traveling to Napa/Sonoma to taste wine. I also enjoy baking (especially pies) and shopping at vintage antique art fairs.

UNIVERSITY OF ILLINOIS

LISA BLACKWOOD, M.D. was born and raised in New Orleans, Louisiana. She completed her undergraduate degree at Tufts University in Boston and medical school at Louisiana State University School of Medicine in New Orleans. She completed her internship at the University of Illinois at Chicago. In her spare time, Lisa enjoys travel, good food, playing with her dogs, and spending time outdoors.

BENJAMIN GARDEN, M.D. was born and raised in Chicago. He completed his undergraduate degree at Yeshiva University in New York City. After college, he taught science in a high school in Brooklyn as part of Teach for America, before attending medical school at Cornell University. He completed his internship in internal medicine at Hofstra University in New York City. After his long exile on the East Coast, Ben is excited to return (with his family) to Chicago and attend Cubs games, as much as his schedule permits.

MICHAEL SOTIRIOU, M.D. was born and raised in Salt Lake City, Utah. He completed his undergraduate degree at the University of Wisconsin in Madison. He returned to Salt Lake City to obtain his medical degree at the University of Utah. After graduating, he completed an internship at Resurrection Medical Center in Chicago. Having grown up in Utah, he is an avid skier, fly fisherman, and outdoor enthusiast. Additionally, he likes golf, cooking, exploring Chicago restaurants, and watching Wisconsin and Utah sporting events.

HUAYI ZHANG, M.D. grew up in San Diego, California. She attended the University of California, Berkeley and then Georgetown University in Washington DC. Huayi completed her medical training at the University of Illinois College of Medicine in Peoria, Illinois. She caught the travel and photography bug from her parents at an early age and has been all over the world. She loves to dance, (especially ballet and salsa). Cooking and eating bring Huayi great joy. You can often catch her glued to the Food Network Channel (when she is not studying dermatology).

UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

LAURA BUFORD, M.D. graduated from the University of Oklahoma College of Medicine. She completed her internship in internal medicine at the Colorado Health Foundation in Denver. Laura's hobbies include running, college football, cooking, and home improvement.

JULIANA GAO, M.D. graduated from the Duke University School of Medicine and completed her internship at the University of Chicago. She teaches medical Chinese and is a medical illustrator. She considers herself a foodie and tries to recreate dishes at home from her favorite restaurants.

ASHLEY JENKINS, M.D. graduated from the University of Missouri School of Medicine. She completed her internship at Resurrection Medical Center in Chicago. Her hobbies include tennis, yoga, watercolor painting, and Augie, her golden doodle.

REBECCA KAISER, M.D. graduated from the University of Chicago School of Medicine after attending the University of Chicago as an undergraduate. She finished her internship year in internal medicine at NorthShore University HealthSystem. She has participated in programs treating patients in Malawi and dedicated her time to the planning of the Malawi National Albinism Awareness Day. She plays the piano, sings and writes.

CHICAGO DERMATOLOGICAL SOCIETY RESEARCH GRANT WINNERS

The Chicago Dermatological Society has awarded two research awards to: Edwardo K. Moioli, M.D., from the University of Chicago, and Lauren Graham M.D., from Northwestern University. Both grants were in the amount of $5,000. Dr. Mioli's research is: Tumor status and molecular profile of squamous cell carcinoma in-situ in immuno-competent and immuno suppressed patients at the time of biopsy, compared to the time of excision. Dr. Graham's research is: The effects of a vitamin D analogue (calcipotriene) on morphea.

Claudia Hernandez, M.D.
Chairman, CDS Research Committee
